CRYSTAL CLEAR

When Highland Park's Jamie Schachtel, a principal of Jamie Schachtel Design Group (jamieschachtel.com), needed a light fixture for her clients' dining room, she had an idea of what they might like. "I know them pretty well; she's more feminine and he's a little edgier," she says. "I thought this Sputnik-type fixture with its unique glass shades would appeal to both of them." She, of course, was right, and the just-introduced Hammerton Studio Blossom Starburst chandelier now hangs over the family's dining room table in a very visible spot. "When you see Hammerton Studio's fixtures in person, you can't wait to use them," Schachtel says. She also likes that the company makes all its fixtures domestically, in Utah, and that the "blossoms" of LED-lit glass are each handblown. "The chandelier is so gorgeous and unique. It's like a piece of jewelry for the home." —Laura Hine
